

Tenure Track Position in Mathematical Biology

Positions: One tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Mathematical Biology in the Department of Mathematics, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Qualifications: The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in mathematics or a closely related field, and potential for research and teaching in mathematics at a research university. Preference will be given to applicants whose research program is in an area of mathematical biology that complements or builds upon existing strengths of the department and/or a UNL life science department, and that strengthens the UNL campus-wide Life Sciences Initiative. Applications from entry level people as well as from people with prior postdoctoral experience are encouraged.

Starting Date: August 2012

First Review: Review of applications will begin December 12, 2011 and continue until a suitable candidate has been selected.

Duties/Responsibilities: Teaching responsibilities include graduate and undergraduate courses in mathematics. The ideal candidate will be able to establish a strong, independent research program in mathematical biology.

Salary/Benefits: A competitive starting salary will be negotiated. UNL makes available life, health, and long-term disability insurance programs as well as family coverage at reasonable group rates to the employee. TIAA/CREF and/or Fidelity Investment Fund are offered for retirement plans.

Applications: Applicants should submit a letter of application, a CV, separate statements addressing research and teaching, and at least three letters of reference, at least one of which should address teaching, to:

Mathematical Biology Search Committee Chair
Department of Mathematics
203 Avery Hall
University of Nebraska-Lincoln
